Wildcats' Are Off For S. I. A. A. Tournament

Final Match Between Kentucky and Georgia Fives Predicted at Atlanta

GOOD IMPRESSION

Special to Lexington Herald
ATLANTA, GA., Feb. 25.—The University of Kentucky basketball team, tipped by experts here as the one to furnish the University of Georgia strongest contention in the S. I. A. A. basketball tournament, arrived this afternoon and took a brisk workout.

The Wildcats made a good impression on rabbids at the new auditorium floor, the team seems to be a fast, rangy outfit, capable of playing the big floor to advantage, where a heavy team might find the long distances and passes difficult. Kentucky plays Tulane in the upper bracket Friday afternoon, the game starting at 3 o'clock. The winner of the Kentucky-Tulane argument plays the winner of the Mercer-South Carolina scrap Saturday afternoon.

Coach Buchheit expressed himself as well satisfied with the drawings and the position of Kentucky. In the list Kentucky is picked to win her way to the semi-finals without trouble and there encounter very probably the Mississippi Aggies, one of the strongest contenders. A final championship match between Kentucky and the undefeated Georgia five is freely predicted.

A campaign is being started now by the class of secretaries and by the alumni clubs.

VANDY OVERWHELMED BY KENTUCKY QUINTET

Blue and Whites Outplay Tennesseans at Every Stage of Game

FINAL SCORE 37 TO 18

Coach Buchheit's ferocious Wildcats, who are setting a terrific pace in the Southern collegiate basketball arena, overwhelmed the Vanderbilt warriors in a forty minute episode Tuesday night by a 37 to 18 score. The brilliant thinking coupled with the lightening-like passing of the Kentucky squad produced a veritable Can-can, worthy of the admiration of the overcrowded gymnasium.

The contest was fast and hard fought but never did Vandy have a chance. Soon after the start the Blue and White had an overwhelming lead and by the end of the first half the score stood 23 to 6. Though the last period was closer and the final pistol fired just as the ball was hitting the backboard for another Kentucky tally that did not count.

Vandy passed well but was off on goal shooting and general field work. They brightened up the game somewhat by several long shots which won the applause of the crowd.

The line-up:
Kentucky (37) Pos. Vanderbilt (18)
Hayden (14) F. Bell (2)
King (10) F. Miller
Wilhelm (8) C. Thomas (6)
Lavin (2) G. Ryan
Ridgeway (3) G. Morrow (8)

Substitutes—Kentucky: Smith for Lavin, Lavin for Wilhelm, Vanderbilt: Schrygler (2) for Bell, Bell for Miller, Miller for Schrygler.

Referee—Hinton, Georgetown.

"PROBABILITY CURVE" DISCUSSED BY MILLER

Forum Meeting Again Has a Very Small Attendance

FORTY-THREE PRESENT

The University Forum held its regular monthly meeting, Monday, February 21, in the Little Theatre. The subject for discussion was the very perplexing one of how to make the grading of the University students uniform. The principal address was given by A. M. Miller who discussed at some length what is known as the "Probability Curve." The crux of Professor Miller's talk was that the ideal attainment of the University in the matter of grading would be to reflect a perfect curve which would conform to the experiences of the University and Colleges generally in the matter of grading. Members of the forum discussed the subject informally after Professor Miller closed his address. An attempt was made to refer the matter to a committee for formulation for a uniform plan in the University which failed through the lack of a second to the motion of Judge Lafferty who proposed it.

Of about 240 members of the Forum, forty-three were present at the meeting.

DANCE AT PATT HALL

After the Kentucky-Vanderbilt game the students enjoyed a dance at Patterson Hall Tuesday night. A piano furnished the music and the evening was enjoyed by all present.

MISS SPINNEY CHARMED IN GREAT GREEK DRAMA

Eminent English Gentlewoman and Artist Read "Hippolytus" in Chapel

CLUBWOMEN PRESENT

By Frances Marsh

Miss Dorothea Spinney, noted English interpreter of classical drama, held enthralled her large audience crowded into the University chapel Thursday afternoon, by her magnificent reading of "Hippolytus," glorious tragedy of Euripides. Miss Spinney read in costume before blue velvet curtains between two lighted tapers and as she was typically Greek in appearance the presentation was effective. The English tragedienne adds to her art a flexible rich voice and a grace that can only be compared with that imprisoned in marble by ancient Greek sculptors of the golden age of Beauty.

Preceding Miss Spinney's entrance, Professor Carl Lampert and Miss Janet Lampert, played a selection from "Orpheus," by Gluck. The mournful music invoked a mood, preparing the listeners for the tragic tale they were to hear—the tragedy of a mere mortal, struggling for life and love against the inevitable decree of the gods.

The University, fortunate not only in securing Miss Spinney was further honored by hearing what she announced as the most difficult selection from her repertoire, "Hippolytus," the Gilbert Murray translation. Her characterizations were admirably executed; the stage seemed peopled by the persons of the drama; the tragic struggling Phaedra, the pure youth, Hippolytus, loved of Artemis, the relentless father and crafty old nurse. In her portrayal of the chorus, Miss Spinney fascinated her audience with a weird charm of undulating grace and rhythmic incantation. She reached the height of her art in the epic narrative of the death of Hippolytus, the reckless charioteer.

Clubwomen from many nearby Bluegrass cities, students from Margaret College and Lexington schools made up the audience and were entertained at tea in the President's office to do honor to the celebrated guest of the University. The English and Classical Clubs under the direction of Professors Farquhar, Grehan, Jewell, Michael, Sax, Cornell and Simrall had charge of the arrangements for Miss Spinney's appearance and entertainment.

University Orchestra To Give First Concert

The University orchestra under direction of Professor Lampert, will give a concert in Chapel Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Several oriental dances, a selection from "Martha," and a new selection of Irish folk-songs, introducing many of the most characteristic of the Irish melodies having those peculiar qualities which distinguish them from the songs of other nations, will be played as cello solos by Marcel Lampert. Mr. Lampert will play the Faust Fantasy as a solo. There will be no admission and students are especially invited to attend.

LITTLE THEATRE WILL OPEN MONDAY NIGHT

Presentation of Four Plays From O' Henry Stories By Students

TWO PERFORMANCES

Monday night, February 28, will be First Night for the Little Theatre season of 1921 and will be the occasion for the presentation of four plays dramatized from O'Henry stories by students of the University in the English department. The Monday night production will be for faculty and another on Tuesday, March 1, will be for students.

In "Twenty Years After," dramatized by Carlisle Chenault the parts have been assigned to Al Sturges as the First Man; Edgar Gregg, the Second Man and William Finn, the policeman. The second play on the program is Claribel Kay's plan of "The Harlem Tragedy" and in this the characters are: Carlisle Chenault as Mamie Cassidy; Virginia Quisenberry as Maggie Fink and Fred Houston-Shaw as Jack Cassidy.

"The Mammon and the Archer," the third play, was dramatized by Frank Gentry and will be staged under the direction of Miss Francis Jewell. The cast is made up of John Selph as Anthony Rockwell; John Albright as Richard Rockwell; Ann Bell as Ellen Rockwell; Ryan Ringo as Kelly, the secretary and Fred Houston-Shaw as Mike, the butler.

Francis Marsh's arrangement of "The Gift of the Magi" will be the concluding number on the program and the players will be Katherine Conroy as Della Young; Mary Elizabeth James as Mrs. Purdy and Ed. Gans as Jim Young.

UNIVERSITY CONDUCTS EXTENSION COURSES

Subjects Given in Danville, Versailles, Paris, Covington and Frankfort

UNIVERSITY CREDIT

(Special to The Kernel)

The Department of University Extension has been requested by the city teachers of Danville, Kentucky, to conduct an extension course for University credit there. Wellington Patrick, Director of University Extension, visited Danville last week, on invitation of the City Superintendent, and arranged for a University course in Psychology to be conducted by Dr. John J. Tigert, head of the Department of Psychology at the University. The course will begin there this week. The course will carry University credit, and whatever laboratory material is needed will be supplied from the University Psychological laboratory.

Other University centers are being conducted in various parts of the State. An extension course in Education is being conducted at Versailles, by Professor Baker. The class has just completed a course in Administration and Supervision 15a. The Department has been requested to continue the work there during the second semester and a course in Education 15b will be given.

Professor L. L. Dantzler is conducting an extension course in English in Paris.

EIGHT MEN MAKE TRIP

By Arthur Cameron

They're off! The greatest basketball team ever produced by the University of Kentucky left Wednesday night for Atlanta, hoping to bring home the laurels from the basketball tournament of the S. I. A. A. The five representing Tulane University will play the Blue and White this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Vanderbilt swamped Tulane and the Wildcats defeated Vandy 38 to 17 only last week, so the men are not expecting to be hard put to win. Later on the schedule they will bump into such teams as the University of Georgia, Georgia Tech who will, in all probability give our boys a run for the money.

Buchheit's three-man combination and a man under each goal have caused grief to every team against whom they have played this season, and the Cats have already met some of the best and most likely contenders for the cup in the entire Southland.

A local sport writer remarks that one will have to scour the country before he will find three better men than

GREENWICH VILLAGE

IN ART DEPARTMENT

Cabarets, Roof Garden, Futuristic Corner, Parrot Girls and Everything

All ye of the straight and narrow, you of the broad and glistening, hearken—the time is at hand. Students, profs, wifes, mothers, sweethearts, sisters, daughters, sons and brothers file into ranks Saturday night, March 5, and stay with 'em to see the fun. We're all going to the Art department to see a real Greenwich Village right in the University. We can't miss the parrot girls and of course we're dying to take in the cabaret. Somebody let it out that the futuristic corner is a scream, so it's see it or die. And the best-looking girls in the University are going to serve supper too, so we must beat the other boys there. I saw a fellow winking about the roof garden the other night and I've got to get there early. Yep, I'm going as soon as the Cadet hop is over.

But getting down to business, as I promised to do, I want to tell you some of the real facts about the Village. It starts into existence Saturday night at 7 o'clock and lasts until 12. Smocked young ladies, parrot girls, garrishly, purplish decorated, and all that is beautiful and ornate will greet you in the studio, which will be arranged in the futuristic manner of the famous Greenwich Village. The artistic conductors will show you unique exhibitions of art among which will be an amusing display of batik. Then they will take time out for the cabaret, which will be overflowing with original stunts and surprises. After that a play, Aria da Capo, will be presented in the Little Theatre. It is a charming fantasy and when given in Greenwich Village held the audience spell bound, and commanded a column of praise in the New York Sunday Times. The play also ran a month in the Vagabond Theatre, Baltimore, and was considered one of the greatest achievements of the theatre.

After the play supper consisting of sandwiches, salad and coffee will be served, and then we students will all be sorry we hadn't given more than 75¢ and the townspeople $1 for the evening's fun.

UPS AND DOWNS

As I stood near the entrance and gazed at the long line of undulating hills and deep valleys and saw the work that the elements had wrought I felt an indescribable emotion surging within me and I thought: "how many years must pass ere another change will come."

The foregoing touching lines cannot but call to mind the feeling that surges within one's breast when he stands at the Armory door and gazes along the rolling expanse of timber and accumulated terrain that has euphemistically been dubbed the University dance hall. It is with great respect and a certain amount of sheer nerve that one tackles such a University "tradition" is used with a thorough "tradition" is used with a thorough understanding of its meaning as one gathers from a nonchalant glance at the dictum of the dictionary that a tradition is "something that comes to us from a past generation."

Rolling scenery is pleasant to behold, but when a University bud is forced to traverse this expanse of loosely flung together timber with a man of similar constitution though with timber more in evidence, it seems time to call a halt. As a consequence of the present condition of the alleged dance floor many touching and pathetic scenes occur at each dance. Only last week two sweet young lives were brought to the verge of ruin. This is how it happened:

They went to the dance, both in good spirits. They became separated. She was behind a rise in the floor; he was on the other side. She said he left the room. He said she sat out a dance. Suddenly they met face to face on the same side of the hill. They both had been there all evening but had been separated by the hillock. Reconciliation.

Thus there is an indescribable flavor of the past in the open air effect gained by the perforated ceiling and one naturally recalls the amusement houses of the ancients. One organization has asked permission to give a toboggan party instead of a dance before the weather gets too warm. By leaving the heat turned off a few days the rain that falls on the floor will freeze and tobogganing will be excellent. The Little Theater has asked permission to cover the floor with green cloth when they present their next play which is laid in the mountains.

The civil engineers could use the floor for laboratory in their study of drainage: with a mule and a scrapper they might even get a little practical work in grading.

The University authorities should study the floor with a view of getting the best use of it. They really do not know the value of the floor to the various colleges. For instance, the Ags might rent the floor for farrowing, and the Army might select it as a site for maneuvers. In fact the possibilities are numerous and magnitudinous and having faith in the authorities we believe that they will not let the floor pass unnoticed. If they do neglect the school's traditions, however, and leave it just as a buffer for the social calendar, then for the sake of the good ole days, and for the traditions that be, we suggest a new floor.

This will be the first game of its kind and should attract much and varied interest. Already the young hopefuls are out loosening up and from all prospects the game will be in the near future. Both squads have been working hard and they should be in rare form.

Each team is trying out some females of the Red Roberts type in order to be prepared if the game gets rough. Get your ringside seats early as they are sure to go like hot cakes.

The annual military ball, to celebrate Washington's Birthday, was given Monday evening in Buell Armory by the cadets of the University Battalion from 8 to 10 o'clock. The men were asked to wear the uniform representing their branch of service and this added interest and distinction to the brilliant occasion.

The decorations were in red, white and blue with draperies of bunting, flags, shields and banners. The programs were pretty souvenirs, tied with red, white and blue ribbons. The University orchestra played a special program of music.

Between the fifth and sixth "no breaks" a buffet supper was served by the University cafeteria.

The committee on arrangements were Herndon Evans, Silas Wilson, Garland Davis, Jesse Hawkins, Thomas Foster, assisted by the five army sergeants, Knight, Kennedy, Eberhardt, McDaniels, Promin.

About four hundred guests were present, the ladies all wearing their prettiest gowns to do honor to the most delightful ball of the season.

RABBI RAUCH SPEAKS AT WASHINGTON CHAPEL

His Subject is "An Alliance of Americans For America"

MUSIC IS GIVEN

"The great question before the American people today is not a question of party or tariff, but shall we follow the historic path outlined for us by God and destiny or shall we break abruptly and become a part of Europe as Europe means and on the decision of this question lies the destiny of America," said Rabbi Joseph Rauch, Louisville, in the Chapel exercises commemorating Washington's birthday, Tuesday, in one of the most interesting talks ever given before the student body.

Rabbi Rauch has spent many years in Europe, has mingled with her people in normal times, and understands the situation there.

Continuing, he said: "In philanthropy we should do all we can to aid the countries of Europe. But in politics we should stay away as far and as long as we can. Her political ways are not ours; our national and international thoughts are not hers; to the words of Washington, 'Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none, or a very remote relation.' Nothing was ever said by an American more true than this, and this Americans must guard today more than anything else.

"To stand unitedly for all this should be the sacred obligation of every American citizen. It is the one alliance to which our hearts and possessions should be unstintingly given. It is the message that comes to us from the life of Washington and the entire history of this nation. Let us heed it and take it to heart. It is the still small voice amid the confusing noises about us saying, America be true to thyself and thy glorious traditions, for in remaining true to thyself thy will be able to render the greatest service to the world."

The musical program of the morning was given by the Men's Glee Club.

In Selecting a University

For a college education, there are five things to be taken into consideration:

1. The men at the head of the Institution.
2. The scholastic standing and ability of the Teaching Staff.
3. The location and advantages of environment.
4. Equipment, buildings, laboratories and libraries.
5. Cost.

In all these respects the University of Kentucky commends itself to those seeking a higher institution in which to carry on their education.

All Departments, including Liberal Arts, Sciences, Agriculture, Law, Education, Mining, Civil, Electrical and Mechanical Engineering.

The Government needs trained men and women; college training will bring the result.
